HONOR WHERE HONOR IS DUE

In proportion to the number of miles driven, fewer accidents are challenging against drivers who recognize the results and honor employed in the daily progress of millions of tons of freight and millions of human lives than are charged to the general run of passenger car drivers.

Nights or day... long or short... rain or shine... thousands of truckmen in every part of this country take their jobs as a serious business and as a privilege. Their slogan is "Drive a Safe!" Their constant, overhauling effect is self-driving.

The professional truck and bus driver as a rule knows his respect and respectability. He never makes an error or one that the average driver does in a lifetime. His respect is not taught him consideration for other drivers on the road and pedestrians in the streets.

Of the truck drivers of this nation, International Harvester sales engineers are proud to be representing him. In tribute to their efforts, literature and Harvester publishes this booklet, "I Drive Safely," and pledges that safety will always be a most important factor in the design and construction and operation of International Trucks.

Should Canadian Publishers Move to Buffalo, Detroit or Minneapolis?

Publication Costs There Would Be Twenty to Thirty Per Cent Lower Than in Canada

Publications so produced would come into Canada free of all duties, sales and excise taxes, and would get the full benefit of lower costs of raw materials and plant equipment prevailing in the United States. The savings effected could be used to render even greater service to Canadian readers.

Figures: Canadian Periodicals Fined as National Welfare

Informed Canadians who take an interest in national affairs, who know the problems of agriculture, industry and government, realize that Canadian farm journals, business newspapers and magazines have reached the place where they are superior, in value of service rendered to Canadians, to publications produced anywhere else.

Because of our peculiar national problems and our diversified interests and industry, Canada, if she is to progress as she should, must have a distinctly Canadian periodical literature of the highest type. We must make national progress by better knowledge and greater efficiency. These depend upon better understanding and greater knowledge which, in turn, are brought about by the dissemination of accurate and factual information, and the discussion of national problems through such periodicals.

Canadian periodicals have made a great contribution to the welfare of the people of Canada. They also make further advances in the education of a periodical literature that stamps Canada as a nation outstanding in cultural, governmental and industrial advancement. Standing between Canada and the full development of a Canadian periodical literature, however, is the growth and needs, in the legislative handicaps of subjects of raw materials and equipment, in comparison with similar costs in foreign countries.

The question, "Should Canadian Publishers move to Buffalo, Detroit or Minneapolis?" is one for the people of Canada to answer through their parliament.

PUBLISHED BY CANADIAN NATIONAL NEWSPAPER AND PUBLISHERS ASSOCIATION, TORONTO

On January 1, 1974, Canada's Government Made United States Periodicals Duty and Tax Free. But Left Canadian Periodicals Heavily Taxed, With Duties, Sales and Excise Taxes on Materials.

Their sales and taxes imposed on Canadian magazines and periodicals, but not applied to United States publications, caused to hundreds of thousands of dollars annually. The prosperity of every Canadian and Canada's progress as a nation is bound up in this problem.

By W. L. Macdonald King has gone on record (July 1972)

"All advances that are made in education are the result of ideas and in any way to provide the possibility of a good idea having an opportunity of fruition to the full in any quarter is related to the extent the progress of education itself. I believe any law which will in any way restrict the widest spread of news and ideas throughout our country, particularly consistent that we ourselves."

Mr. King's government has applied the policy to United States periodicals. "Constitutional demands that Mr. King's government complete the application of the principle by issuing Canadian Periodicals to Write the Spread of Canadian Ideas Throughout Canadian Communities and Progress."

"Self-interest as well as sentiment suggest that we should support Britain in the present crisis"

REPUBLICANISM would suggest that we should be loyal to the group or groups which have the most effective claim on our sympathies, personal, national and international sympathy.

There are no exceptions here. It is the duty of the citizen to support the group or groups which have the most effective claim on our sympathies, personal, national and international sympathy.

Driving Safely in MIST and FOG

[This is the kind of a series of magazine articles on driving safety prepared by General Motors in the hope that, here and there, drivers may find a useful suggestion.]

So long as there is light, we can safely travel our roads and highways at a goodly little rate. But every now and then the Nature Nation decides to show us darkness, and if all her devices for asking us not to go any further, which is more effective than such, and its weaker brother, fog.

When mist and fog do come along, the very best thing we drivers can do is slow down. After all, in foggy weather, most cars reduce speed by several knots, and drivers have sometimes, without frequently ground their planes, and even some on their own, been killed.

Driving ahead as far as possible is the most important thing under conditions like these. And experienced drivers say this is the first thing to do in the face of our headlights' demands. But if we have them shining straight ahead, these rays may not drop as far as they actually reflect the rays right back into our eyes. It has the habit of our ground down, however, the eyes are deflected towards the road.

It's a good idea, also, to let the road edge at our right guide us in keeping on the proper course. But, of course, if a narrow highway, a smaller eye is straight ahead, for fog veils the roadside warning signs of curves, intersections and traffic lights and we must be prepared for sudden hazards that may become immediately acute, even when we are watching closely.

But seeing in fog and mist is only half the story. So have to be seen, as well. If we have our headlights properly adjusted, we can be pretty sure that they will do their duty in pointing to us in foggy evening conditions. A good and light is equally important, because we depend on it to make us visible to the car approaching from the rear. And a hint on the horn every now and then, if we're in any doubt, never is to the other driver's attention, goes a long way toward making sure we're there at his path.

When all is said and done, driving safely in fog is really a matter of keeping eyes open, ears and brakes in good condition—and keeping both eyes peeled to see what's ahead that usually means ahead.

Matter of Fact

THERE HAVE been at least 10 cases of Alzheimer's at the hotel in New York that the prosecution has suggested is the scene of a plot to assassinate the president. It is the only hotel in New York that has a room for the president's family. The hotel is the Waldorf Astoria, which is the only hotel in New York that has a room for the president's family. Large quantities of ethnic ivory were shipped from Java to China. These were made available to a Philippine businessman from the United Nations, who has been found to traffic both in slaves and medicines. The UNO, UN agencies failed to intervene in selling, and the Americans got the ivory only after three days by paying three million dollars. The ivory, which was 300 MM, captured a special interest of the United States and those of private and ownership of ivory, and are highly valued as two different.

The brothers of the delta Mendeans are the white, white race of the world. There are records in the largest ancient library built 1300 years B.C. which speak of them as having very slender limbs, eyes and hair. In Southern Europe they were encountered in early times and led to North America where they have left their cities.

A DOLEFUL TALE

"Oh, rescue me, my gallant knight!"
The microbe princess cries.
Her cavalier observes her plight
And to her aid he flies

"Fear not, my sweet!" her gallant shouts,
And drives each microbe vassal
To scamper up and save his love
From all the candy castle

So, one by one, the tower they try,
But slide right down again.
Alack! The shimmey candy walls
Are sheathed in "Cellophane"!

"Cellophane" is the registered trade mark of the DuPont Cellophane Company Inc., for cellulose film manufactured in Canada, under contract, by Canadian Industries Limited.

AND SERIOUSLY...

Children may have a warm spot in their hearts for Johnnie Microbe and his Companions—but the villainous rogues do not reciprocate. Clean, pure, transparent "Cellophane" keeps them far away in Story-Book Land, and off candies and sweets of all kinds—no matter where they may be displayed.

So it is with all kinds of foodstuffs, and textiles too. Wherever cleanliness and freshness are important "Cellophane" cellulose film stands on guard to protect your health and bring you products just as the manufacturer intended you should enjoy them. Then too, through "Cellophane" you see exactly what you buy.

If you would like a children's colouring book containing new adventures of the Microbe Family in merry verses, write to Canadian Industries Limited, Department "M-3" "Cellophane" Division, Montreal. We will be glad to send you one.
